Methodology and limits

This is an editorial prioritisation framework, not a measured search ranking, traffic forecast or claim of highest demand. No keyword-tool export, search-volume dataset or Search Console data was available for this review. Historical demand tiers remain hypotheses, not independently validated market measurements.

For 117 original questions, recorded component scores are recalculated using Demand 35% + answer-format opportunity 25% + conversion intent 25% + feasibility 15%, with each component scored from 1 to 5. The 25 historical practical additions retain editorial totals because their component scores were not recorded. The two immigration questions are informational clarifications and have no demand tier, score or search rank assigned. No missing components or new search-volume data have been invented.

Every row now maps to an exact question in the current content. Rankings are sorted by score within each provider; tied scores share a rank. Unsourced informational questions are shown separately at the end of the provider table. Scores are retained for planning continuity, not as a forecast of traffic or a guarantee of any educational outcome.

There are no exact duplicate questions in the FAQ collection. Related topics such as fees, recognition and working while studying intentionally recur for different providers. Different wording does not prove separate search intent or eliminate keyword competition; actual page/query data is needed to assess that.

US/UK immigration: GAU and RBS

The two immigration FAQs distinguish programme completion from visa eligibility, qualifying post-study work and permanent residence. They explain a common principle across the relevant programme categories without declaring every award suitable for immigration. These are informational clarifications; no measured demand or conversion benefit is established. The US/UK Immigration FAQ Report provides the detailed route explanations and dated source register.

Search and AI visibility

Google documents that FAQ rich results stopped appearing from 7 May 2026. FAQPage structured data does not promise rich results, higher ranking or inclusion in AI Overviews. Useful, accurate answers and clear page structure remain the purpose of this content. No special markup or question order guarantees search or AI visibility.

Practical recommendations

- Keep the highest-priority reader questions easy to find. This is a usability choice, not a demonstrated crawl-priority signal.
- Confirm exact award titles, programme routes, commercial terms and any recognition requirements before relying on a particular offer.
- Add only relevant, confirmed internal links using current programme information and evidenced progression routes.
- Use Search Console query/page data and enquiry performance to refine priorities when measured data is available. Do not present an editorial tier as measured demand.
- Exact duplicate checks do not establish an external plagiarism percentage. No numerical originality certificate is provided by this analysis.
